

Volcanoes in Print

Letterpress Printing Workshop

How would a book about climbing Mount Etna have been produced in the fifteenth century? Is it possible to imitate the work of the Aldine Press—one of the finest printers of the age—in the modern day? Come to this workshop to find out, and to try your hand at setting lead type and hand-printing your own volcano-themed keepsake.

3–5pm, Thursday 6th December 2018
S4, Swallowgate

No previous printing experience necessary, but spaces are limited. Please write to dawn.hollis@st-andrews.ac.uk to register.

University of St Andrews

*Hosted by the University of St Andrews
Centre for Landscape Studies and the University of Stirling Pathfoot Press.*

